Vision 01 Breathing

Breathing Exercises

The breath should be used and controlled entirely from its source the bellows. The air passage from the bellows to the lips(or voice) should remain perfectly normal, neither choked nor distended in any way. The quantity of breath should be regulated by the pressure on the bellows. player should employ the abdominal muscles in controlling the bellows. The breath should be used as freely as in speech. Neither force it nor spare it; but use it naturally. It is like the violinist's bow, for it makes the tone. In observing these rules regarding the breath the result will be perfect; for there will be no unnecessary wasting or saving of the breath. The breath regulates the quantity or volume of the tone.
